WORK TO SHIRK

Mort Walker had a Beetle Bailey strip the other day which showed the comic hero's classic stance as an Army goldbrick. At least that's what we used to call this type.

Anyway. . .

"Beetle" is rolling around the barracks floor in the first panel yelling "Ow! Ow! Oooooow! I practically broke my leg on the stupid footlocker."

And he continues through the last panel: "Ow! Ow!" You get the idea.

In the last panel, Sarge asks another guy, matter of factly: "Ever see anyone work so hard to get out of work?"

NOW-NOW-NOW

NOW THANKS. . .

Screwworm Cases Confirmed, Ranchers Warned

Six screwworn cases have been confirmed in Milam County and cattlemen are warned to watch cattle closely, especially newborn calves, to identify and treat any other cases that may develop.

Sterile screwworm flies have been released by officials of the screwworm lab at Mission in the areas where the cases are reported, including close to Cameron and Rockdale and the Ben Arnold area.

County Agent Bill McCutchen said the situation is serious with six confirmed cases meaning there is an outbreak of the deadly, flesh-eating pest. He said there are probably many other cases in the county which have not been caught.

McCutchen said producers should be alert and keep a close watch on cattle wounds such as dehorning and castration, and keep an especially close eye on newborn calve's navels.

Vials available at the county agent's office and from veterinarians should be used to collect suspicious worm samples for shipment to Mission for identification.

About To Happen...

There is a meeting of North Milam United Fund workers Monday and chances are they will be reporting drive results over the top, for the 1974-75 year.

And if that report is good, it will be because people went where they never bothered to go before, organized what was never organized before and worked a little longer than they worked before. And the difference is not only the change in dimension of Cameron, but in the verve of the leadership.

We would point out that, contrary to much opinion, things just don't happen. They are caused to happen. And with some luck drawn in by the momentum of confidence, good things, even great things happen.

To North Milam United Fund, we expect that is about to happen.

Gray Political Day...

We join the almost plaintive call for people to vote Tuesday in the general election which apathy has tried hard to bury.

The Governor has campaigned intermittently, primarily in the four Texas metro areas, in an altogether unrace for a four-year gubernatorial term.

The other races have braced the sturdy interest of a marshmallow, following almost total disinterest in state politics after a year of national calamity.

The state still needs a new constitution, a sample of which failed to reach a voting stage by three votes in convention.

But the state will wait until this general election is past, however inconsequential the vote. And it is too bad, because a first four-year gubernatorial term ought to get a greater sounding than this.

Oh, what a gray political day.

If you can, color it a bit by voting.

Republicans Could Lose 50 Seats In The House

By Roland Dallas
WASHINGTON

Reuter--Republicans could lose at least 20 and possibly 50 seats in the House of Representatives this month, producing a Congress strongly opposed to President Ford's Republican policies.

"The road is difficult," a top Republican strategist who asked not to be identified said. "We're in tough going."

Shortly after President Ford took over from President Nixon, this strategist had euphorically described the political scene as a "whole new ballgame" with bouyant Republicans hoping the disastrous Watergate scandals would be forgotten.

But the fortunes of the Republicans have slumped again following Ford's controversial pardon of the former president and his proposals for a limited five percent tax increase and conditional amnesty for draft evaders.

Another Republican organiser said: "We expect to lose in excess of 20 seats."

"But so many races are tighter than a tick that nobody knows," he added.

Democrats, who were gloomy after Ford arrived in the White House and appeared to be drawing together a broad national consensus around him, are happy again.

"We can see about 30 seats which we should certainly pick up and we can look at another 10 to 20 where we have an excellent chance," Vince Clephas of the Democratic National Committee says.

With 30 more seats, the Democrats would add an overwhelming number of partisans to their present majority of 248 and 187.

One of the Republicans' few hopes of success is in Arkansas, where attractive Judy Petty is challenging influential Democrat Wilbur Mills--hurt by a scandal linking him to a stripper known as the "Argentine Firecracker."

Republicans claim Mrs. Petty is gaining steadily on Mills, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, but Democrats reply that Arkansans are dismissing the scandal, saying "Wilbur has been playing games in Washington."

Mills has not appeared in public since the incident near the Potomac River, when his face was bloodied and cut and the stripper jumped dramatically into a tidal basin.

But in most states, Democrats are heading for victories in the 435 House of Representatives race.

In Birmingham, Alabama, city councilwoman Nina Miglionico is favored to unseat Republican John Buchanan with the backing of Governor George Wallace, liberal Democrats and blacks in the city.

Democrats hope to pick up at least six seats in California, including a victory in San Jose by Mayor Norman Minetta who would become the first American Mainlander of Japanese origin to become a member of the House.

They also hope to secure four gains in Illinois, including the seat of retiring Republican whip Leslie Arends, which could be won by young Democrat Tim Hall.

In Indiana, once a bulwark of Repbulicanism, ultra-conservative Earl Bandgrebe is running behind Democrat Floyd Fithian in Gary and Andrew Jacobs is favored to oust Republican William Hudnut in Indianapolis.

Italians Refuse Higher Prices

By Christopher Matthews

ROME

Reuter - Workers in northern Italy have come up with a novel way to fight inflation - they are simply refusing to pay higher prices.

It all began in Turin when steelworkers returning to their jobs after the summer holidays found their bus season tickets had gone up by 15 per cent.

After some initial confusion, local unions decided to boycott the increase and started issuing their own season tickets at the old rate.

The bus companies responded by suspending their services and the issue came up before regional authorities, who agreed to freeze the price hike pending an investigation.

Next came electricity, with the unions agreeing to "black" a 78 per cent increase in domestic tariffs. Members are being instructed to pay only half of the new, mammoth-sized bills.

Organizers of the protest argue that there is no way the electricity company can hit back. Between 50,000 and 100,000 workers are involved, they say, and any power cuts would therefore have to affect whole neighborhoods.

In addition the electricity employers responsible for carrying out the cuts would almost certainly be union members and hardly likely to move against their own comrades.

From Turin, the "civil disobedience movement spread to Milan, where some 20,000 families in the public housing sector are refusing to pay higher rents.

Milan commuters also declined to pay increased bus fares, though it is estimated that only about 1,000 of the city's 15,000 season ticket holders are involved in the protest.

In one instance, it was the mayor of Milan who organized a civil disobedience action. He instructed parents not to pay for textbooks for the coming school year.

The books are supposed to be issued free by booksellers, but these had decided to charge this year since the government has not yet settled last year's bill.

So far, however, civil disobedience has remained a local phenomenon and both the government and national union leaders are keeping an anxious lookout to see if it spreads to other parts of the country.

The big test will be Naples, whose population is individualistic to the point of anarchy. If Naples takes up the new form of protest, then it is a safe bet that it will spread to the south and become a national-size headache for the country's politicians.

The unions are very much in two minds about it all part of the national leadership is against since it is a local phenomenon over which they have no control and which they fear could in the longer term lead to a breakdown of the unity of organized labor in Italy.

The secretary of the communist - dominated Italian general confederation of labor, Lucio De Carlini, recently came out flatly against civil disobedience. Part of his reasons are probably that the standard - bearers of the new movement are extra - parliamentarian organizations well to the left of the communist party.

Chinese Paper Reveals Plot To Make Them Laugh

By Tim Pearce
PEKING

Reuter -- China's ever vigilant cultural commissars have uncovered a plot hatched by a group of subversive elements to overthrow communism by making people laugh.

A bizarre expose of this plan, concocted by China's favorite villains, Lin Piao and Liu Shao-Chi, was published recently in China's leading newspaper, People's Daily.

The paper said that Lin, Liu, and their followers had "wildy advocated" a "theory of amusement," pushing the fallacious idea that people go to theaters and movie theaters for entertainment.

"To satisfy their decadent and degenerate spiritual needs," the report added, in tones more commonly reserved for exposing the scandals of other countries. "They vigorously peddled those shopworn goods such as the vulgar and the low-class' life comedies," "comical films, and "smiling night parties,"

Observers noted that among the leaders of this group of libertines, Lin until his death, was defense minister and heirapparent to Chairman Mao, while Liu was president of the republic until his downfall during the cultural revolution.

"More important," People's Daily went on, "They vainly attempted to poison the minds of the people with so-called amusement programs so that the workers, peasants, and soldiers could forget about class struggle... amidst laughter and let them freely restore capitalism."

Literature and art, the article continued, are tools of class struggle. "There have never been literature and art, or works of pure 'entertainment', that stand above classes."

The Chinese communist movement has always attached great importance to steering all cultural activities into strictly defined ideological channels.

The pressure on the arts to devote themselves to putting across party propaganda has become particularly heavy in the past decade since Chian Ching, the 60 year old former Shanghai actress who is chairman Mao's wife, was put in charge of cultural affairs.

The "model revolutionary" stage works, for instance--the 'morality plays' of communist China--have a few simple plots, clearcut and superficial characterisation, and good--the communist-always triumphs over the vicious but clumsy forces of evil-landlords, kuomintang generals and foreign imperialists.

The heavy propaganda is lightened by excellent acrobatic battles and by the villains, objects of mockery with their greenish greasepaint, ill-fitting foreign or old-style clothing and grotesque skulking gait.

The current situation of the arts here, in the military jargon of People's Daily, is that "revolutionary literature and art has really played the combat role of uniting and educating the people, and trouncing and annihilating the enemy."

Despite this overwhelming success, Chinese communism, like many ideologies in their militant phases, does not permit humor to play a part in such serious political activities as official stage productions.

Amazingly, after 25 years of communist rule. some cultural workers are evidently still under the pernicious influence of the "theory of amusement."

"For instance," the People's Daily complained, "Some ballad-singing works do not voice the revolutionary feelings of the workers, peasants and soldiers. . . But solely tell funny stories and even promote these senseless bourgeois jokes, thus reducing stern political problems to a vulgar level."

Another Chinese press report told the cautionary story of a group of playwrights who "included some lines meant to provoke laughter."

Reports such as these dialogues "between two people on stage are a favorite form of entertainment and there are even occasional, though cautious and friendly, jokes involving the powerful public security authorities.

The man in the street laughs as heartily as anyone else though he undoubtedly has to take care not to laugh too loud at politically sensitive subjects.

Mexicans Fight Legal Abortions

By John Parcell

MEXICO CITY

Reuter -- A young congresswoman's call for legalized abortions has touched off angry criticism from political and religious leaders in Mexico, where the cult of machismo -- male supremacy -- is still strongly rooted.

Mrs. Silvia Hernandez, a 25 - year - old alternate deputy, opened the controversy with an impassioned plea for the repeal of anti-abortion laws during public congressional committee hearings.

Mrs. Hernandez, who is married to a junior civil servant with no children, shocked the opposition as much as the ruling institutional revolutionary party for whom she sits in congress on a stand-in basis.

Health and Welfare Minister Jorge Jimenez sternly replied that the government would never legalize abortion, "which threatens to shake the ethical andmoral values on which the true integrity of the family is based."

Interior Minister Mario Moya weighed in with a public appeal to Mexican men "not to risk our women becoming the victims or slaves of this practice," -- a turn of phrase which brought him a standing ovation in the lower house.

In an emotional speech he managed to maintain in the space of five minutes both that it was the poor who suffered from back-street abortionists -- one woman in five died, he said -- and that it was the rich who had benefitted from legalized abortions in some European countries.

Opposition parties and Roman Catholic leaders have branded Mrs. Hernandez' proposal as criminal and she has come under bitter personal attack both in the government - financed press and independent newspapers.

But the fact remains that according to official estimates between 600,000 and 750,000 abortions are performed every year in Mexico -- one for every three or four live births.

Doctors who have to treat the many women injured by primitive methods say a large number of the patients are married women and already have large families and cannot face the prospect of another child.

FB Launches Promotion

The Texas Farm Bureau today launched a statewide gift certificate campaign to increase the consumption of meat, poultry, and dairy products.

TFB President J. T. (Red) Woodson said this is a "positive approach" to moving agricultural commodities which are in serious trouble at this time.

In a letter to all 210 organized county Farm Bureaus, Woodson said the promotion involved Christmas gift certificates for these food products. Theme of the campaign will be "Give meat, poultry, and dairy products for an old-fashioned farm and ranch Christmas."

"What a better way to express the true spirit of Christmas than by giving a gift certificate for these foods," the farm leader said. "we believe that the concept will catch on. The American Farm Bureau Federation has been asked to carry the idea nationwide."

Woodson said Farm Bureau would seek the cooperation of other agricultrual groups, food chains and independent grocers as well as top state government officials.

He said county Farm Bureaus will be asked to form special committees to call on local grocers and to promote the program locally. Woodson said most food chain have their own gift certificates and that these could be used in the promotion. Certificates will be furnished to stores that do not have them.

Special envelopes and message cards will be provided for persons wishing to send checks or money orders instead of gift certificates. These will be available at county Farm Bureau offices.

Linguists Visit Mainland China

A University of Texas scholar heads an official U.S. delegation of linguists on a month-long visit to mainland China.

Prof. Winfred P. Lehmann is chairman of the 11 member U.S. group observing linguistic developments in many Chinese universities and institutes.

The trip is part of a growing number of scholarly exchanges between the U. S. and China that resulted from arrangements worked out following the 1973 visit to China of former President Richard Nixon.

'Death With Dignity' Symposium At Baylor

WACO

A "Death with Dignity" symposium scheduled for Nov. 8 will attract locally and nationally prominent professionals to the Baylor University campus.

One of those to speak during the symposium will be Dr. Sheff D. Olinger, director of the Department of Neurology at the Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas.

The symposium, which is sponsored by the Baylor Law Review of Baylor's School of Law and the State Bar of Texas, will deal with the social, legal, and ethical implications of "passive" euthanasia. The program will provide a forum for doctors, lawyers, religious leaders and the general public to reevaluate the social and legal policies regarding the question of whether or not to sustain the life of one who is terminally ill.

Olinger will speak on "Medical Death: When Does It Occur?" at 10:40 a.m. Nov. 8 in Baylor's Roxy Grove Hall.

A native of Virginia, Olinger holds a bachelor of science degree from Virginia Military Institute and a doctor of medicine degree from the University of Virginia.

Oil Firms Refund On Gasoline

Agreements on price refunds totaling $711,801 were reached during September between the Federal Energy Administration and 82 petroleum firms in the five-state southwest region of FEA, it was announced today by Delbert M. Fowler of Dallas, FEA regional administrator.

Largest of the refunds was by PacerOil Co., a Tulsa Okla., wholesale firm. Pacer agreed to refund $130,238.54 on gasoline sales and $16,307.75 on diesel sales.

The refunds were the result of 180 investigations completed in the five states by FEA during September. Since FEA took over the investigation of pricing July 1, 1974, a total of 677 cases has been investigated and completed.

These investigations during the past three months have resulted in refunds totaling $3,480,487 by 283 wholesale and retail firms in the southwest region.

Bob Bullock Winds Up Campaign For Comptroller

Austin-- Bob Bullock, Democratic nominee for Comptroller, this week winds up his campaign to bring a new era of openness, efficiency and common sense to the Comptroller's office.

"This office belongs to the people and it should be run accordingly," Bullock said. "It is the heartbeat of state government and must keep up with the changing times."

The present Comptroller, Robert S. Calvert, is retiring at the end of the year.

Bullock, formerly Texas' Secretary of State, has campaigned in every county in Texas in both the general election race and the Democratic primary. He swept the primary by carrying 253 of the 254 counties.

Bullock says the Comptroller should take a new attitude toward small businesses by helping cut through red tape instead of "spending state money to find two-bit mistakes in nit-picking audits."

He has also called for speeding up the state's handling of city sales tax payments to the cities and for expanding efforts to audit big out-of-state corporations which do business in Texas and handle millions of state tax dollars a year.

"The Comptroller's Office has been the dark corner of state government for 25 years. It's time to turn on the lights and open the doors," Bullock says.

Bullock also has campaigned to keep the Comptroller an elected officer, saying that Republican efforts to make the job appointive would lead to pork-barrel spending and an end to the pay-as-you-go system.

Bullock, 45, is a former member of the Texas House, legal counsel to the governor and assistant attorney general. He and his wife Amelia live in Austin.

YOE SCALPS EAGLES 42-6

A blend of powerful offensive running and sound defensive tackling gave the Yoemen an easy victory Friday night. The Yoemen were able to stun the Eagles with an 42-6 win.

In the opening quarter the Yoe offense maintained possession of the ball for 17 offensive plays. The Yoe's deepest penetration of the first quarter was when quarterback Randy Sapp quided them to the Hearne 17. On a second down and 8 with 4:30 left on the clock, Jafus White fumbles the ball and Hearne recovers.

The Eagle offense lacked the pose needed in running against the most talented defense in the state. The deepest penetration of the opening quarter was to the Yoe 44. Hearne ran 10 plays from scrimmage and netted 2 first downs, both times they were a result of pass plays from QB David DeStafano. At the end of the first quarter neither team was able to march across the goal-line.

The contest took a different complexion in the 2nd quarter when the Yoe offense took command and scored twice. Early in the 2nd quarter the Yoemen had great field position after a 38 yard run by Willie Bell. On a third down and 3 from the 11 yard line, Kopriva fumbles and once again Hearne was able to hold.

A miss guided pass from DeStafano was picked off by Gary Hornung, #88, and put the Yoemen in the best field position of the night down to the Eagle 5. With 8:45 left in the 2nd quarter, Gene Kopriva pushed through the line and in to the end zone for 6. Mondrik's kick on the PAT was wide to the right.

A drive that started with 7:00 minutes in the quarter ended in a touchdown with only 2:00 left in the first half. Willie Bell, #22, on a 1st and 10 from the Hearne 14, skipped through for the TD. A fake kick on PAT netted the Yoemen 2 points when Joey Mondrik threw the ball to Brian Wilkinson who was all alone. The Yoemen were able to gain 195 yards rushing the first half. Sapp went to the air 6 times and had two completion for a total of 18 yards.

On the first play from scrimmage the Eagles went to the air, after a triple reverse DeStafano unloaded. Troy Daniels , #88, intercepted and gave the Yoemen early possession of the pigskin. With 8:59 on the clock Willie Bell secured his second TD of the night. It came on a third and 1/2 from the Hearne 8. Bell around the left end found no opposition. This gave the Yoemen a comfortable lead of 21 to 0. After attempts to formulate an offensive drive failed by the Eagles, the Yoemen took the ball over on their 21. On the first down play Kopriva plunged for 5. Willie Bell got the next assignment and was able to follow blocks for 74 yards and a TD. Mondrik sailed the ball straight through the uprights for the extra point. The thrid quarter ended with Willie Bell scoring twice and running for 110 yards. Bell's total yardage of the night must be a state record, 279 yards.

With 8:36 in the 4th quarter, a march that took the Eagles 13 plays and 70 yards ended in a touchdown. This is the first touchdown that has been scored on the Yoemen defense since the opening game against the Taylor Ducks. The point average against the Yoemen is now a slim 2.25.

DeStafano connected with Melvin Bates, #80, on a nine yard pass play. The PAT fo one was blocked by Harry Brooks.

The Yoemen popped back when Willie Bell scrammbled in for the fifth Yoemen touchdown. The play came on a 2nd and 7 from the 39 with 6:08 on the clock. Mondrik on the PAT for one was good. Smitherman was called on to take the QB slot and did so in style. Under pursuit Smitherman dropped back on a 3rd down and 4, and connected with Ronnie Bennett, #85. Bennett took the ball and evaded one tackler and went to the sidelines for 66 yards and the final Yoe TD. Kopriva had the honors on the PAT and added one to the board.

BADGERS TAKE 38-28 WIN

The Buckholts Badgers stepped past Oglesby with an easy win, 38-28. The Badgers took early command of the contest when Danny Krall scrammbled 51 yards for the touchdown. The PAT failed. The Badgers put another TD on the boards when Krall once again ran for 35 yards and the TD. The point after attempt failed.

The Oglesby took command of the offensive attack and put three quick touchdowns on the board. All three PATs were good. Before the end of the opening quarter the Badgers went to the air and quarterback Carl Tomasik to Harvey Gommert for 45 yards and the touchdown. The point after was good for 1. The score at then end of the first quarter gave Oglesby the slight edge 21-19.

In the second quarter The Badgers scored twice, early in the quarter Mone Williams ran for 27 yards. The PAT failed. A pas from Monte Williams to Carl Tomascik for 43 yards allowed the Badgers a 32-28 half time lead.

In the second half the Badgers scored only one time. It came on a 57 yard run by Monte Williams. The point after was no good.

The final score proved the Badgers over Oglesby 38-28.

YOE FROSH SCORE 18-6 , WIN

The Yoe High freshman team scored a sound victory over the Hearne freshmen Thursday night at Yoe Field. The Yoe freshmen suffered their first district loss against Elgin last Thursday. With the Hearne victory the freshmen are still in the race for first place.

Mid-way through the first quarter David Rosemond scored on a 74 yard run. The try for a two point conversion failed and the Yoe team was in front 6-0. The freshmen team guided a spirited drive down the field. Nearing the end of the first quarter Michael Knight got the call and plunged in from the one yard lind. The two point conversion try failed.

The Yoemen went to the dressing room well in command of the game and showed tremendous effort on defense. The defense didn't allow the Eagles a single penetration through out the first half.

In the third quarter the Eagles started their passing attack that allowed them to enter Yoe territory for the first time of the evening. On a fourth down and one quarterback Robert McMurrey tucked the pigskin and hurreled over the center and went across for their only touchdown. The try for two failed as the quarterback was met by a host of Yoe defensive players.

David Rosemond had an active night as he picked up 135 yards rushing in only 12 carries. Late in the third quarter Rosemond following a line of blockers went to the right end and cut up field and poured on the steam for 60 yards and the Yoe touchdown. The try for two failed. The fourth quarter consisted of holding down the Hearne offense and taking the 18-6 victory.

Indoor Garden Beats High Prices

If you're looking for a way to beat today's high food prices, why not plant a vegetable garden inside your home this winter.

"Homeowners as well as apartment dwellers who want to practice their gradening skills during the winter can produce tasty vegetables indoors," says Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The basic requirements for indoor gardening include suitable containers for plants, a good soil mixture, adequate water and fertilizer, and sufficient space with enough ligh t for plant growth."

Among the vegetables that do well indoors are chives, parsley, peppers, tomatoes, leaf lettuce and radishes, says the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Chives are an excellent crop for the kitchen garden and grow similar to green onions. They perfer cool conditions and good light and grow well on window sills in the kitchen.

Plant seeds or bulbs one inch apart in six to eight inch deep pots. The leaves will be ready to eat in 10 to 12 weeks.

Parsley can be grown similarly to chives, with one plant persix or eight inch pot.

Tiny Tim tomato plants canbe grown in a 10 inch pot, while the Small Fry or Patio varieties do better when planted in three to five gallon containers. Tomatoes should receive four to six hours of sunlight a day.

Peppers need warm conditions and adequate sunlight and will mature in about 10 weeks.

Leaf lettuce does best when planted in eight to ten inch pots and grown in a relatively cool area which receives some sunlight. Many types of leaf lettuce will be ready to eat within five to six weeks after planting.

Radishes are quick and easy to grow. Use a six to eight inch container and plant seeds one-fourth inch deep. Radishes will be ready to eat in four to five weeks.

"So, if you want to save a little money on groceries this winter as well as enjoy a challenging and rewarding hobby, try indoor gardening, " suggests Cotner.

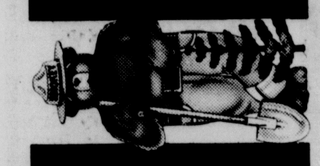
The Lonely Heart



In the thirty years that Smokey Bear has been telling us to be careful with fire, we've cut the number of forest fires we start in half.

But we still start over 100,000 careless fires every year.

Someday, one of two things will happen, and Smokey will stop reminding us to be careful: Either there won't be any more forest fires, or there won't be any more forests.

It's up to you.
